Brooke seeks debate over BBC

UK - BBC CONSULTATION DOCUMENT EXAMINED
Financial Times (C) 1992 (FT) 25 November 1992 p11

NOT ONLY is the cover of the government's consultation document on the future of the BBC, published yesterday, green but there are elegant green stripes down the side of every page just to remind readers of its intent. The Future of the BBC is that rare breed of government green paper - a document genuinely seeking consultation and debate over the future of an important national institution. In the document's 43 pages, there are many 'could's', few 'should's' and a forest of question marks. Its spirit is best captured by what could almost be turned into a BBC2 media quiz - In the 20 Questions set out by the government. The changes the government is seeking for the BBC include: Aiming for sustained improvements in organisation and efficiency, whatever its programming role. Giving value for money and demonstrating clearly that it is doing so, however the corporation is eventually financed. Developing a range of output and performance measures and indicators covering the efficiency of its activities, quality of service, audience reactions and financial performance. Creating a more flexible organisation - the BBC has been criticised for unnecessary bureaucracy and over-rigid decision-making. The biggest question of all is what role the BBC should have as a programme maker in an increasingly competitive broadcasting environment. The Future of the BBC - a consultation document. HMSO Pounds 7.10.

ACTV DEVELOPS INTERACTIVE CABLE TV SHOWS US - ACTV DEVELOPS INTERACTIVE CABLE TV SHOWS
Advertising Age (AAE) 29 August 1988 p52
ISSN: 0001-8899

ACTV (New York) is developing interactive cable TV shows to debut in some 5 markets within a year. The production company already has 150 hours of programming that will allow TV viewers to play along with a TV game show or to choose an exercise program with the correct exertion level. 'Exercise Chalet' is an exercise show. Consumers can select a workout level by using their TV remote control devices. 'Midnight Blackjack' is a TV game show. Viewers are dealt cards for a game of blackjack and can choose whether to continue getting cards or to freeze. The choices made by viewers are recorded by a box attached to the TV. The signals from ACTV come to the TV and the box sorts the viewing sequences based on the viewers' choices. The system is interactive in one direction. No data is transmitted back to the TV program supplier. Other programming includes talk shows and childrens' shows. Separately, Interactive Game Network (Menlo Park, California) plans to debut an interactive TV program system that uses a home laptop keyboard for viewer input. The firm plans to introduce interactive game show programming in a year's time. Pretaped TV game shows such as 'Jeopardy' will be the basis of play-along programming. Viewers will enter responses as the game progresses that will be recorded. At game's end, viewers will call up their local cable TV operators to send data by phone to IGN's computer. Viewers can win

SOMETIMES A TV CHARACTER STEPS-OUT AND STAYS OUT

Text:

Some years ago on "All My Children," the ABC-TV soap opera, a character named Bobby Martin went upstairs to polish his skis, and he hasn't been seen...

...show asking, "Is Tommy Horton still up in the attic?" "

Generally, the writing out of television characters is executed more tidily, though it invariably presents considerable challenges
